

Update of the Indianapolis-Marion County Park, Recreation & Open Space Plan

Public Meeting Summary

In early March 2015, eleven (11) public meetings were completed in each of the nine (9) townships with three (3) conducted in Center Township. Many methods for publicizing these workshops were utilized including press releases, email blasts, radio advertising, note cards, multiple social media outreach methods, many mentions on local news media outlets besides word of mouth.

All public meetings followed a consistent format of: educating the community and soliciting public input and their vision for the future. This included information on the planning process and demographic shifts in the Township and nation-wide trends. The crowd-sourcing project website (www.planindyparks.com) was revealed to the audience, who were encouraged to visit and participate in the online survey and follow the plan’s progression through posted technical reports and meeting times/locations.

Residents were also asked to identify system-wide strengths, opportunities and single highest priority outcome of the Master Plan through spoken comments. Further public input was solicited through an open house format and discussion where residents identified their top 5 program, facility and marketing and communications priorities from a list provided on planning boards.

The following summarizes and highlights the results of each public meeting.
